Thos. D. Eastin died in Washington City, Saturday, Dec. 29, 1894. Some weeks since he left this city for Washington to secure work on a newspaper. The sudden announcement of his death came in the nature of a shock to his friends here. His remains were brought to this place and on Tuesday, Dec. 31, were placed in the vault in Machpelah cemetery. Mr. Eastin was by nature endowed with more than ordinarily bright mind, and had the rare gift of making himself a pleasant acquisition to any company when he chose to lay himself out to please. He leaves a wife and child, besides his parents and two brothers. We extend sympathy to the survivors in their bereavement.

Mr. W. C. Hoffman, the live young insurance man of this city, has placed himself at the head of the agents in the State for the Monteagle National Life Insurance Company, by sending in new policies than any other agent in Kentucky. Messrs. Cassady and Lain, State Agents, send him in acknowledgement of his success, and thirty-one of his children and grandchildren grouped around him. It was a beautiful and touching scene. Besides his sons and their children he leaves an aged sister, Mrs. Margaret Carrington, to mourn his going hence. On Monday the funeral services were held at the Christian church, of which congregation he had long been a faithful and honored member.

A telegram from Boonesboro, Ky., says that the dead body of George Boyce, a stock-dealer, was found in a badly decayed condition near Riverdale. It is supposed that the purpose of the murder was robbery.

Willie Stratton has secured a position behind the counter at Thos. Rumpf's Drug Store. Willie extends a special invitation to all his friends to call and allow him to serve their want.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

For Railroad Commissioner.

We are authorized to announce John C. Wood as a candidate for Railroad Commissioner, for the Eastern District of Kentucky, subject to the action of the Republican party.

Mt. Sterling has again been disgraced, and what little there is left of her good name for law and order, has again been dragged in the dust. Great God, how long are such things to be endured! It is not possible for us thus to sow to the wind and not reap the whirlwind of disgrace and dishonor. Every such exhibition of lawlessness is an open insult to our courts of justice and all constituted authority. It goes for nothing to say the victim was thoroughly unfit to live and richly deserved the fate he met. Let him be as bad as he may, still the man who compassed his death are none the less murderers, and his blood cries out to an offended and openly defied law for vengeance. He was a person in the hands of the law awaiting his punishment decreed by that law, and the peace and dignity of the commonwealth has been ruthlessly set at defiance by men without the fear of God's law or man's enactments before their eyes. We are disgraced, dishonored, degraded, steeped in shame and made a hissing and a by-word by such deeds of foul infamy. Look, you men, who would apologize for or abet such deeds of open defiance of the law made to protect each one of us in our rights of life and property, that you do not live to bitterly rue such contempt of constituted authority. Such deeds are barbarous. The doing of such things brand us but once remove from the savage.

We need an awakening of an enlightened public opinion that will force the courts of the commonwealth, judges and juries to do their whole duty. This is the remedy. But so long as lawyers can be merciful to suborn perjury, and judges can be influenced to shut their eyes to the plain letter of the law, and sheriffs can be persuaded to select juries to render a verdict, they have already made and the good people of the community stand in liferly by and raise no open protest against such violence done against justice, we may only expect these things. A lawyer is sworn to look faithfully after the best interests of his clients, but he is more or less a perfused scoundrel, when he lends himself to what he knows is subversion of perjury in order to compass the acquittal of that client. The judge upon the bench who has not the moral backbone to observe his oath and give the law as he knows it stands on the statute books, but needs hand for some technicality, in order to give the miscreant, whose case is before him, the opportunity to be turned loose to prey still further upon society, be he upon the Circuit or Appellate bench, should have himself from a deserved perjuror's hell by vacating that office at once. But the fault does not lie so much with the courts, the seat of the trouble lies in a maudlin sympathy for the murderer that is so prevalent among the people, Judges, sheriffs, jurors and lawyers are only men and when they know they will be called to a strict account before the bar of public opinion they will not be slow to give a very sensitive attention to the will of the people. The remedy is to be found in an awakened public conscience. There is nothing that a man so dreads as that his evil deeds shall be made the subject of public scrutiny. It takes a long and very successful career of infamy for a man to pronounce himself as so secure in his villainies that he can say, "the public be d—l." There is a fearful day of reckoning for off-his-Montgomery county unless we bring up with a sharp turn. In the name of the people of the State, the grand jury soon to sit is called upon to sift this last crime, together with other infamies said to be existing in its midst, to the very bottom, and if possible bring the perpetrators to a realizing sense of how far they have transgressed against society.

Two United States Senators are to be chosen at the next meeting of the Wyoming Legislature. One to succeed Joseph M. Carey and the other to fill the vacancy made by the failure of the Legislature to appoint a successor to Francis E. Warren two years ago.

Mr. Harry L. Means, of the Kentucky News Bureau, is confined to bed with typhoid fever.

The hanging of Thomas Blair on Tuesday morning was a foul murder. That he deserved death for the part he took in the killing of Captain Bonar, we are not called on now to discuss. Even if he did, the men who took his execution in hand were not licensed to mete out death to him. But this is not the worst of this miserable affair. It is broadly suspected that the motive assigned was only a pretext and that the real motive was not disclosed. Let the motive be because some parties were afraid of him and wanted him out of the way, or because some of Captain Bonar's friends determined to wreak vengeance for his murder, the crime was a foul one. If ten or fifteen men are licensed to try, condemn and execute a man for a crime of which the courts had not said he was guilty, how long will it be till these, or some other ten or fifteen men, shall feel called upon to resolve themselves into a court, try, condemn and execute, dear reader, you, your son or your brother!

Dissolution Notice.

The firm of Greene, Clay & Chenault will be dissolved by mutual consent February 1, 1895, Messrs. Lucien B. Greene and J. Will Clay retiring. In order to close up our business, it is necessary that those indebted to us come forward at once and pay what they owe us. The business will be continued by Messrs. Carroll Chenault and Richard Punch, and the retiring members of the firm most cordially commend these gentlemen to the friends of Greene, Clay & Chenault and to the public generally, as in the highest sense entitled to their confidence and custom. Again we respectfully urge those indebted to us to call promptly and close their accounts. Thanking our friends for the liberal custom we have received at their hands, we are

The Exchange Bank of Kentucky.

Read the statement of the financial condition of the Exchange Bank presented to our readers by the Cashier, Judge H. R. French. The semi-annual dividend of 3 per cent, and the other items show an earning the last six months of $7,377.70. The bank is in a condition to make its stockholders feel very comfortable, and no one acquainted with those thorough business men who are entrusted with its management will feel any uneasiness about its continued prosperity.

When Others Fail

Hood's Sarsaparilla builds up the shattered system by giving vigor to the digestive organs, creating an appetite and purifying the blood. It is prepared by modern methods, possesses the greatest curative powers, and has the most wonderful record of actual cures of any medicine in existence. Take only Hood's.

Hood's Pills are purely vegetable, and do not purge, pain or grip.

Mr. John P. Martin, of Xenia, Ohio, is in the city. He wants to put in a new electric plant and the Water Works, and if the city will be liberal with him in granting him the lighting contract, both plants will be right away. We are glad we have an understanding board of Councilmen and believe they will be liberal in their dealings. These plants we must have, now is the opportunity, and we set [sic] men know it better than the men who gave the interests of the city in charge. We have the best business city, to the square foot, in Kentucky and this ear we look for greater advancement than ever before. These plants will bring others. Let us have them.

Ed. Mitchell, the Hardware Man, advertises in this issue. He expects to reach the trade and everybody whose wares are from a box of tasks to a threshing machine. BID the NEW YEAR welcome and let the OLD YEAR go, and shed no hypocritical tears at his departure, for he goes the very picture of grisly Care, with a pack-horse load of sins—National, Municipal and Individual—or his stooping shoulders. Farewell! A long farewell to thee, O, Frosty Bearded '94! May thy counterpart never again be met with in this vale of "railroad strikes," "thug politicians," "tariff tinkerers," "sugar trust scandals," "populist fantasies," "Carlsbad crudities," and "Republican landslides." We cannot write thy obituary, because such writing is but the COINING of tears and sorrow into words, and such COIN would not pass current even in these hard times, but would be pronounced at once the BASEST COUNTERFEITS by the most inexperienced.

SO let the OLD YEAR go, and give a hearty welcome to the bright and smiling youngster, who comes with "business prosperity" boldly printed on his grip-sack. Get out of Despondency's slough, and be ready like the desert ship (so called) to HUMP yourself, for there is music of "the good times coming" in the air, and we are helping to make this ANIMATING MUSIC. Will you CONTRIBUTE to the BAND? Will you join with US in the gay procession? Are you tired of hard times, high prices, shortages in weights and measure, poor quality of goods and still poorer service? If so, we HONESTLY BELIEVE the penance for all your ill's is to get a move on-yourself, and trade hereafter with

The New Year was ushered in at Mt. Sterling by the terrible spectacle of the body of a man swinging, answer to the bitter winter blasts, between heaven and earth, his life having been rudely and ruthlessly taken by a mob. Thomas Blair came to this place on Thursday on the 25 p.m. train. In a few hours he had gone to a disreputable house, shot at a man named Day, came to Mrs. Stevens' boarding house, raised a disturbance there, and finally was proceeding to break up a negro dance when the marshal of the city brought him up with a short iron and placed him in jail to sober down for awhile. About 2 o'clock on Tuesday morning Jailer Best, who has a sleeping room attached to the office of the jail, was aroused from sleep by three or four masked men who seized him, thrust their pistols in his face and demanded the keys to the jail. They soon discovered them under his pillow and lost no time in turning them over to the mob outside. They at once passed into the jail, and finding the object of their search asleep on a mattress in the hall behind him, Lewis Moore, "Fly Lick," was the only other prisoner who was not locked in a cell. He says there were twelve or fourteen men in the jail, that they went to Blair's bed and proceeded to the him before he was fairly awake, and that at some show of resistance on Blair's part, one of the mob struck him on the head with a long shot. That one of the mob said: "D— you are not killing Bomar now. Come on with us." Blair had on his pants, vest and socks, and they did not wait to allow him to dress further, but hurried him to the Coal Road Trestle, over the Camargo pipe and hung him. When the people awoke on New Year's morning the gory spectacle sent a thrill of horror into the hearts of all who saw the dangling body with its distorted features. Esquire Henry Jones acted as coroner and had the body taken down, and it was found fastened a paper upon which was written in a bold but plainly disguised hand the following:

"We find Thomas Blair guilty of the murder of Captain J. L. Bomar, and hang him this January 1st, 1895, to vindicate the rights of law abiding citizens."

PIERCE OF CAPT. J. L. BOMAR.

Thomas Blair first became generally known to our citizens, when about the first of February last took part in the killing of Capt. J. L. Bomar. The particulars of this deplorable affair are still fresh in the minds of most of our readers. It will be remembered that Blair and John McKeown were in town that day and were walking up the street with H. Clay Turner when Bomar came up and opened fire on Turner. All three replied to Bomar's fire, Turner and Blair doing most of the shooting. The tragedy occurred at the corner of Broadway and Court streets, just in front of the Court House door. Bomar fell dead under the fire. All three escaped punishment, though much indignation was manifested against Blair and McKeown for their part in the affray. The litigious and obstinate Mr. Joe Smith has traded 14 acres of land on Hickston creek for a house and lot on Richmond avenue and will take possession March 1st, after making sale of stock and crop. Joe is one of our best citizens and we will gladly welcome him to the city.

Captain and Mrs. J. W. Jenkins, of Covington, mourn the loss of their beautiful little daughter, Ollie. The little one died of whooping cough on Sunday evening, and Monday night her remains were brought to this place for interment. Mrs. Jenkins was Miss Anna Sealeur and her host of friends mourn with her in the loss of her darling.

Query.—On this charge as a basis, what will be their charge in the New Farmers Bank matter, where many suits have been brought? Then there are other attorneys. What will their charges be? Is it not time for the trustees to take sufficient time to make an itemized statement, showing the amount of money collected, their disbursements and every liability up to date? Certainly the stockholders and depositors should know the present status of their interests. This one thing we do know: they have paid from the amount which came into their hands, more than $600,000, only thirty per cent on the deposits, and that they have been nearly eighteen months in doing. What a showing for so-called business men! Suppose you had a fifteen-year-old inexperienced boy and should turn over to him notes amounting to $600,000, and in eighteen months thereafter he should hand you in about $60,000. What would you think of the lad? You would not fail to find out from him how many notes he had left and how he had made his collections. The Columbia Finance & Trust Company should make a public statement on their own accord and if not willing they should be compelled to do so. Our people have rights that the trustees should respect.

A Card.

We are indeed thankful to our friends, and they were many, for the kindness shown our father in his last sickness.
